Public asked for help after dog found bound & killed

The stray, a Chihuahua mix, was found on Merkley Avenue with a broken neck

Law enforcement officials are looking for help from the public after a Chihuahua-mix dog was found in West Sacramento, apparently tortured and killed.

A probation officer working with a yard maintenance crew found the dog on Thursday afternoon at 1720 Merkley Avenue, near Westacre Road.

"The dog's legs were bound together and its mouth was tied shut," according to the Animal Services Division of the Yolo County Sheriff's Department. "During the veterinarian's preliminary examination and X-ray, it was determined the dog's neck had been broken."

The dog was a stray, with no ID or microchip. It was a 3-5 year old, small tan and white male.

Anyone with information is asked to help solve this "extreme case of animal cruelty," said the Animal Services department. If you have information, please call the department at (530) 668-5287 or call West Sacramento Police at (916) 617-4900.

'Dynamite' causes home evacuation

Firefighters and police responded on July 17 to the 500-block of Laurel Lane, after a citizen reported what appeared to be a bundle of dynamite behind some garbage cans next to his home. From the street, firefighters could see the bundle "with what appeared to be a wire coming from the bundle to a small metallic box," reports the West Sacramento Fire Department.

"They decided to evacuate all of the residences surrounding the suspicious device for safety, and the Yolo County Bomb Squad was called to the scene. Approximately ten homes were cleared of occupants." Then the case took a different turn:

"While waiting for the bomb squad to investigate the device, WSPD officers were approached by a young boy who informed them that the device was a novelty item he had placed there. Using this information, the bomb squad technicians confirmed that the device was not hazardous and removed it from the scene."

Added Sergeant Nathan Steele of the West Sacramento Police Department:

"An eight-year old boy was playing with a novelty fake bomb. No charges were filed."

West Sac man pleads 'no contest' to molesting girl

Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig announced last week that Dmitry Dudkin, a 27-year old West Sacramento resident, was convicted of two counts of child molestation after pleading "no contest."

Reports the D.A.'s office: "Dudkin, molested an 8-year old girl from 2009 to 2011. The crimes were discovered when the victim went to school with a hickey on her neck. The victim told the police that Dudkin showed her pornography and asked her to perform various sexual acts on him. The victim also disclosed that Dudkin took pictures of her with his cell phone."

The Yolo County High-Tech Crimes Taskforce analyzed Dudkin's computers and cell phones taken and found provocative photos of the victim.

"Deputy District Attorney Sara Abrate prosecuted the case and stated, 'With the assistance of the High-Tech Task Force we were able to locate evidence that supported the victim's statements and obtain a plea from the Defendant. This plea ensures that justice has been served not only by taking a child molester out of our community but also by protecting the victim from the trauma of having to testify in court. In addition, the sentence he will receive will ensure that he will not harm another child.'

"Dudkin faces life in state prison and will be sentenced on August 24, 2012 by the Honorable Judge Stephen Mock."

Local voters may be asked about tax funds

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

With the dissolution of its redevelopment agency, a lot of the property tax money West Sacramento used to finance big infrastructure projects and help encourage development will be directed other places -- like the State of California.

But some will find its way back to the City of West Sacramento. City staff estimates the city will get about $2.5 million from the Redevelopment Property Tax Trust Fund in the current fiscal year.

CHRIS LEDESMA
City Council Member

The city council has a current policy that this money will serve some of the same purposes that redevelopment did, by heading into the Community Investment Program.

There, says a city staff report, the money will go to "core activities (including) infrastructure project funding and project delivery (planning, design and project management), economic development (business attraction, retention and expansion efforts), and real estate transactions (land acquisition and disposition related to infrastructure projects and development site assembly)."

Tonight, the council will talk about making this a long-term city policy by putting an advisory measure on the November ballot in West Sacramento. The ballot measure could ask the following question: "Should the City direct ongoing revenue it receives from the dissolution of its Redevelopment Agency to fund community investment projects such as streets, bridges, transportation, and public infrastructure?"

City council member Chris Ledesma is one of those studying how West Sacramento can promote economic development

(think of the renaissance now underway in the Bridge District) without a redevelopment agency. He thinks earmarking these funds for "community investment" is a good idea. "We're proposing that some of these residual dollars that come back can be directed to some of the same purposes as redevelopment, to maintain our momentum," said Ledesma. "What we're trying to get at with this advisory measure... is to go to the voters and see if they think this is a good use of the money."

Ledesma said West

Sacramento is better off than many cities, which are struggling just to keep basic services running at an acceptable level in this economy.

If the council approves the planned advisory measure, it will be added to the November 6 presidential ballot. The Yolo County Elections Department plans to call it "Measure G."

It would be a non-binding ballot measure. Anyone who wishes to draft an opposing argument for the ballot will have until Aug. 20 to submit an argument of up to 250 words for consideration.

Real-world trackers need to watch where they step

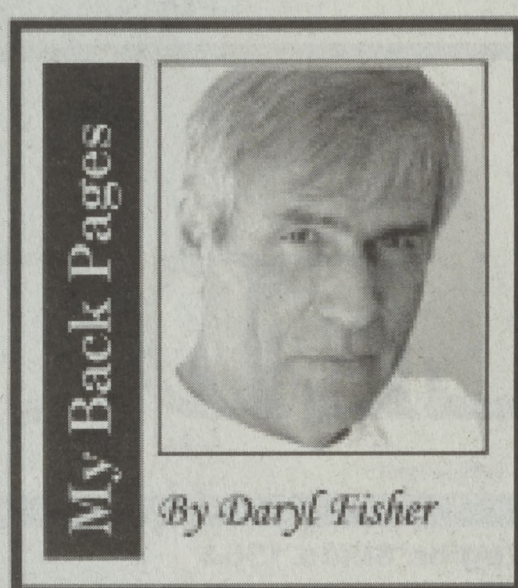

When I was about ten or eleven years old, my very first girlfriend (or at least that is what she liked me to call her) asked me what I wanted to be when I grew up.

"A doctor, I guess," I lied, trying to impress her.

"That's wonderful," she said, somehow already aware, even at that tender age, that if she was going to start getting serious about a boy, he ought to have a decent future ahead of him.

I didn't have the courage to tell her the truth, that what I really wanted to be when I grew up was a professional tracker. That's right, one of those quiet, hard men who used to ride bent over in the saddle looking for clues on dusty trails that would lead them to outlaws with big bounties on their heads, or to bands of renegade Apache Indians who needed to be rounded up and returned to the reservation.

My mother had told me years earlier that I had some Indian blood running through my veins (1/16 I think), so I was pretty sure I would make a great tracker, assum-

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

ing of course that there was still going to be something left to track when I grew up. At the rate Apaches and other Indians were dying off in the cowboy movies I was always watching, I had my doubts. But I still often fell asleep thinking about how pretty and fast my pinto horse was going to be (his name would be Patches) and how I would be such a good tracker that no one would ever double back on me. I could hardly wait to grow up and head out West (although I was already living in West Sacramento at the time) where I could chase after desperados or put my ear down on the ground and listen for the distant thundering hooves of unshod Indian ponies.

Then one day in 1969, just a few weeks before I was going to turn 21, I suddenly found myself way, way out West, in a place called Vietnam. I had a tracker's uniform on all right, and they had even given me my own rifle and a whole bunch of bullets, but other than that and the fact that the C-rations we had to eat tasted like they had been packaged way back in the days of cowboys and Indians, it didn't have the fun feeling that I had always associated with being a professional tracker before. Plus it dawned on me that back when I had wanted to be a professional tracker, I had definitely not spent enough time thinking about what happens when you actually catch up with the guys you are after!

Anyway, on that particular day, I was shivering from a combination of fear and chilling drizzle as I cautiously trudged through the dense elephant grass on the way to our next objective. My 40-pound backpack felt like it weighed a ton and my feet were absolutely killing me. Where was Patches when I really needed him, I thought to myself.

Up ahead, our point squad leader, Sergeant Ketchum, suddenly thrust a clinched fist up into the air, mercifully bringing our 30-man Aero Rifle Platoon to an unexpected halt. He and Corporal Nunn, his gangly friend and radio carrier, were a good 15 yards in front of me, obviously worried about something they had seen.

Sergeant Ketchum finally glanced back over his shoulder and casually motioned for me to join him. He had barely uttered a word to me since I had been placed under his command, and hoping to get on his good side, I rushed forward. But my prompt arrival went unnoticed as both he and the corporal were busy staring out intently at an ominous looking tree line some 50 yards to their front.

Finally, after Sergeant Ketchum had fumbled around in a pocket and pulled out a damp cigarette and lit it, he turned his attention to me.

"You're Fisher, the new guy, right?" he asked me, looking directly at me, almost through me.

"Yes, sir," I said, making a mental note to stop calling non-commissioned officers 'sir'.

"Fisher," he demanded, pointing down to the wet earth with the barrel of his rifle, "what does that look like to you?"

I desperately wanted my first answer to a Sergeant Ketchum question to be correct, so I took a studied look at the object he wanted me to identify.

"Well, Sir," I finally mumbled, "it kinda looks like a pile of crap."

"Very good, Fisher, and now just what do you think a pile of crap is doing way out here in the middle of nowhere?"

I looked back down at the ground. It had obviously been left by a human being, and it looked like it was a pretty fresh specimen. Then I bent over for a more detailed look, trying to give myself some more thinking time.

"Fisher," yelled the sergeant, "for heaven's sake, get your face out of that!"

Then he grabbed one of my arms and abruptly straightened me up, causing me to lose my balance and step right into the center of the topic of our discussion.

"Fisher, that is enemy crap, and where you find enemy crap, what else do you think you will find?"

I didn't have the foggiest idea, and it apparently showed on my face, because shortly after I had stopped gagging from the smell coming up from my boot, the sergeant barked, "You find the enemy, Fisher, the enemy! Do you understand?"

"Yes, Sir," I blurted out, making a quick mental note that if careers as professional trackers ever came back into vogue again, I wanted no part of becoming one.

West Sac firefighter honored by national vets' group

Ian Gilmour, a firefighter/emergency medical technician with the West Sacramento Fire Department, was chosen by the national Veterans of Foreign Wars organization as "firefighter of the year" for 2012.

Nominees were in the hundreds, reports Gary Reason, commander of Post 8762 in West Sacramento. They were graded partly on their reputation among their colleagues.

Gilmour is credited with saving the life of a child last year. Firefighters "arrived on the scene finding a lifeless child next to the swimming pool," said the local fire department, and Gilmour took the youth to an ambulance.

They administered CPR and got a pulse, with Gilmour continuing resuscitation efforts in the ambulance. The child recovered -- and eventually had a chance to visit Station 45 in Southport and the crew that saved his life. Gilmour received a $500 prize from the VFW as part of his award -- which he donated to the Wounded Warrior Project and the National Fallen Firefighter Foundation.

Berryessa conservation area

The office of Senator Barbara Boxer announced last month that she had introduced legislation to create a 319,000-acre "Berryessa Snow Mountain Conservation Area" from a region that spans the counties of Yolo, Lake, Mendocino and Napa.

"The Berryessa Snow

Mountain region is one of California's treasures," she was quoted, "and this bill will help ensure that it is protected for future generations to enjoy."

The new designation would put all the land into one management plan to better protect it, said Boxer's office.

His partner, Joseph McGuire, has taken over the planing mill at Westgate and will conduct the factory in the future. Brown made himself so obnoxious to his neighbors that several complaints were lodged against him with the Woodland and the Sacramento authorities.

J. Sacramento is building a new home of the bungalow type on his ranch along the Sacramento River, east of Jefferson Boulevard. Sacramento has a growing young family and wants a larger house than the one he has occupied for several years. The new home is a model of modern convenience and will be equipped with any improvements that can be secured in his neighborhood such as electricity, sewer and heating facilities. The new home makes quite a showing in the Sacramento district and is quite proud of it.

Carl Lin Furman, who is in California last Wednesday evening was seen after which Lindquist returned to West Sacramento.

McNally & Partridge are clearing the ground they bought some time ago from the West Sacramento Company for a new service station they are about to establish in the vicinity of the new subway or rather at the turn of the road leading from the highway to the new subway. At this point they expect to establish a modern service station with all the latest improvements. Some of the equipment now being used at the service station near the old subway will be moved to the new location but both stations will continue to be maintained by those using less men.

Rev. Father Summit, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of the Blessed Sacramento in Washington, asks the Independent to thank the members of the parish who lately contributed so liberally to the support of the church. Insurance and other repairs were necessary to the church and the parishioners knowing of this voluntarily contributed about $100 to relieve the situation. Ed. Moss was instrumental in gathering a nice little sum to help along the congregation and Father Summit feels greatly indebted to him for the time he devoted to the relief of the church. Father Summit declares that no further contributions will be asked until after the winter season.

RIVER LEVEE ROAD IS BEING IMPROVED FOR CHINESE GAMBLING PLACES RAIDED BY SHERIFF MONROE

During several days the road south of the peach orchard in the river levee has been unfit for travel because the roadway became clogged with a heavy growth of willows and underbrush.

As a consequence, all travel down along the right bank of the river as far as Riverview made use of the old levee as far south as Jefferson station. The natural result was that the uninterrupted growth of willows forbade any travel on the crown of the river levee in that locality.

In getting together, Supervisor Buckingham and the West Sacramento Company agreed to make available $2000 for the clearing of the road. Of this Buckingham contributed out of the county funds $1500, and Reclamation District No. 900 contributed $500.

The work of clearing and fitting the road for travel will be done by the Alaska Packers' Association without cost so that it is probable that the fund of $2000 will clear the roadway as far south as Riverview or Lisbon station on the Oakland Antioch Railway.

There is no stretch of roadway along the Sacramento River more beautiful than this. It parallels the river for a distance of about four miles and is a favorite place for those who enjoy fishing. The levee is heavily wooded, making it a favorite place for those who enjoy fishing.

Swimming is infrequent along this stretch of river but the water is so clear that the bathers can see the bottom. With the improvement of the road above, this stretch of river will become a favorite place for bathers and anglers during the summer season.

SOUTH PUTAH ROAD TO BE BUILT FROM MILLAR STATION SOUTH

For the accommodation of the promoters of the South Putah water and irrigation project an agreement has been reached by the supervisors of Solano and Yolo Counties to build a roadway a distance of three miles southward from Millar station to the reclamation district headquarters.

The total distance is about three miles. Of this Yolo County supervisors have consented to stand for the construction of one mile of the roadway, while the supervisors of Solano County have consented to stand the cost of two miles of roadway of the entire distance.

The improvement of the road will consist of graveling only, because already the roadway has been graded by the South Putah Irrigation Company.

From Millar station north to Dixon a good roadway is already in existence so that when the contemplated improvement is completed the promoters of the district will have some encouragement in the shape of roads.

TWO BRYTE RESIDENTS ARE ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP

Woodland, Oct. 3.—One Woodland man and two from Bryte were admitted to United States citizenship today in the court of Judge W. A. Anderson. U. S. Naturalization Examiner Maxwell Lamb of San Francisco conducted the hearing. All of the applicants went through the examination easily, it was said.

Those now admitted to final papers were Chris Christensen, a native of Denmark, employed here at Breier's Department store; Albert James Caffaro, a native of Italy, living at Bryte; James Nikola Dozet, a native of Serbia, living at Bryte.

The new citizens were complimented by officials and left for their respective homes.

WOMAN TRIED SUICIDE BECAUSE OF JEALOUSY

Jealous because of her husband's alleged attention to other women, Mrs. J. S. Fuller, 27 years old, of 216 Fifth street, Washington, attempted to end her life, following a party at her home last night, by drinking crostote. She will live, according to Dr. Henderson. Fuller told the police his wife had been attempting to obtain poison for more than two weeks.

William H. Anderson, notorious leader of the Anti-Saloon League in New York, is trying to gather more money.

But not very successfully. The hypocrites are onto him.

With a coterie of relatives and friends present. Games and music were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. L. White, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jasper, Miss Maisie Anderson, Miss Doris Jean Hughes, Miss Margaret Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Anderson and Norman White.

The Saturday evening dances being held in the town hall under the direction of Mrs. Gilstrap have been well patronized.

On October 31, Halloween, a mas-

Sheriff Monroe, assisted by Deputy Sheriff Newton and Constable Wilson, put a temporary stop to Chinese gambling or games of chance in their headquarters north of town Sunday.

What was known as the Ah Wing Company, lately opened in the Hauser property, half a mile north of town, was first raided.

Here Ah Wing, Ah Fong, Ah Way and Ah Mah were arrested and a great bundle of what was called lottery tickets were taken by the raiders.

No other gambling device was in sight when the raid took place and consequently no other evidence was taken up by the sheriff and his helpers.

On Monday morning when the above named Chinamen appeared before Judge Barry they pleaded guilty and were immediately fined $100 each.

Judge Barry cautioned them, through an interpreter, that if they appeared again in his courtroom on a similar charge, he would increase the fine even to the limit.

The Union Company, with a place near West Sacramento, was also raided by Sheriff Monroe and his helpers. In this place six Chinamen were taken up, Kim Sang, Ah Foy, Sam Kee, Fong Soon, Wong Kong and Too Wise.

In the possession of these Chinamen no gambling devices were found and no lottery tickets were taken up. It seemed evident they had been tipped off to the raid about to be pulled off by the sheriff and his deputies.

At any rate, when these Chinamen appeared before Judge Barry on Monday morning they all pleaded not guilty and are awaiting the action of the district attorney with the idea of prosecuting them if possible on some pretext.

At the headquarters of what is known as the Canton Company no gambling paraphernalia was found by the raiders and no Chinamen were found in charge of gambling devices nor was there any money found displayed on tables or in open view of anyone entering the place.

No arrests were made by Sheriff Monroe and his deputies.

The sheriff and his helpers called at the Washington Club but found only a few men engaged in playing whist or casino. No arrests were made at this locality either and no obstruction was placed in the way of the officers. The doors at the Washington Hotel are kept closed but are not barred and this is done solely so that minors may not enter the place unawares.

Reports published in Sacramento papers and in Woodland papers also indicated that a veritable gambling saturnalia was being conducted in and around Washington.

This is a great insult to the respected families of Washington and they forcibly resent it because there is no community in Yolo County more peaceable and more sober than the community of Washington Township.

While it must be acknowledged, and the Independent so acknowledges, there is considerable consumption of canned heat along the river levee, it is absolutely stated here, without fear of contradiction, that the men who use this poisonous liquor are those who cross the river from Sacramento bringing with them the damnable stuff that has caused so many deaths in the State of California since prohibition went into effect.

Anybody passing through Washington cannot help but notice that the general demeanor of the residents of the community is good. It is only in the jungles south of the M street bridge that canned heat is reaping its harvest of human beings.

The grocery stores and other stores in Washington are not selling canned heat. As a matter of fact, the principal store in the town, Geo. Beale & Co., has never sold canned heat and is not now selling the material and does not intend to retail it. This poisonous liquor can only be obtained in Sacramento and certainly there is no scarcity of it in the capital city.

Any gambling that has been conducted in the vicinity of Washington has been entirely outside the town limits and outside the jurisdiction of the constable.

From time to time Sheriff Monroe and his deputies have made arrests but these officers have become so well known to the Chinese that it is next to impossible to catch them at their games of chance or percentage games.

Out of his own salary, Sheriff Monroe has now placed a paid deputy at work in the person of C. A. Newton, who is determined that no further gambling shall be conducted in the community.

The county law does not permit the employment of a paid deputy by Sheriff Monroe. Some years ago when prohibition was about to be saddled on the people the grand jury of the county decided to take off the only paid deputy in the employ of the sheriff in the belief that if prohibition could be enacted for the state and nation there would be no further use for a paid deputy under the sheriff. The county law was accordingly changed so that since that time Sheriff Monroe has been forced to do the work alone, leaving him greatly hampered especially when jury trials are being conducted in the superior court in Woodland.

Although Deputy Sheriff Newton is being paid by Sheriff Monroe out of his own pocket for the time being in an effort to prevent pernicious publicity in the Sacramento and Wood-

HARMON ROAD IS BEING IMPROVED TO JEFFERSON STATION

What is known as the Harmon Road in West Sacramento is being improved under the direction of Supervisor Buckingham.

This road leads from Jefferson Boulevard immediately north of the Holy Church in West Sacramento to Union Station on the San Francisco Sacramento Short Line.

The distance from Jefferson Boulevard to the station is about half a mile and farmers of the neighborhood are busy at the present time doing the grading under the direction of County Surveyor Proctor.

Following the improvement by grading it is the purpose of the supervisor and the county surveyor to gravel the road with macadam its entire distance.

This road has been under heavy travel for several years but nothing has been done in the way of improvements except what the farmers of the neighborhood did to protect themselves from the inconveniences of the winter season.

Now that the short line stops its trains at the station to discharge and take up passengers, it is anticipated that a great deal more travel will pass over the road.

Supervisor Buckingham explains that there are several more roadways in the West Sacramento district that will be improved in a similar way as soon as funds are available.

YOLO SUPERVISORS OBJECT TO CLOSING OF FIFTH STREET SUBWAY

Woodland, Oct. 7.—Passing a resolution asking that the state railroad commission take action to improve and enlarge the present underpass at Broderick, west of the M street bridge, and allowing traffic to go under the Sacramento Northern Railroad tracks, the Yolo County supervisors served notice that they are opposed to the state highway commission's tentative plans to abandon the present underpass and close it up.

The action of the supervisors was taken last yesterday.

Henry Buckingham and W. O. Russell state that they had been unofficially told that the state is planning to eliminate the present underpass as soon as the one now under construction and located some distance west, is completed. Buckingham said that the abandonment of the present underpass would work a hardship on many people of that district.

Supervisor Russell contended that the Washington district is building out to the Westgate property and two underpasses will be needed to take care of the traffic. As it is believed that the highway commission is set on eliminating the present underpass, Supervisor Russell suggested the resolution to the state railroad commission.

Supervisor Buckingham made the motion and all other members of the board seconded it.

In the event that the highway commission does not heed the resolution as presented to the railroad commission, the Yolo officials may take court action to restrain the state from closing up the present subway.

The Lions Club of Woodland is going to give a prize for the biggest liar at the lunch hour tomorrow.

The only man barred is Fred Shaffer, secretary of the Yolo County Board of Trade.

WASHINGTON MAN JAILED FOR BEATING HIS CHILD

Woodland, Oct. 5.—Mat Gremen of Washington began serving a six months' sentence in the Yolo County jail yesterday on a charge of child beating. Some months ago Gremen was given a six months' suspended sentence by Justice of the Peace Davis L. Barry of Washington Township for beating his 9-year-old stepson. Last week Greenman is alleged to have again abused the boy.

DINING, TRAVEL & ENTERTAINMENT

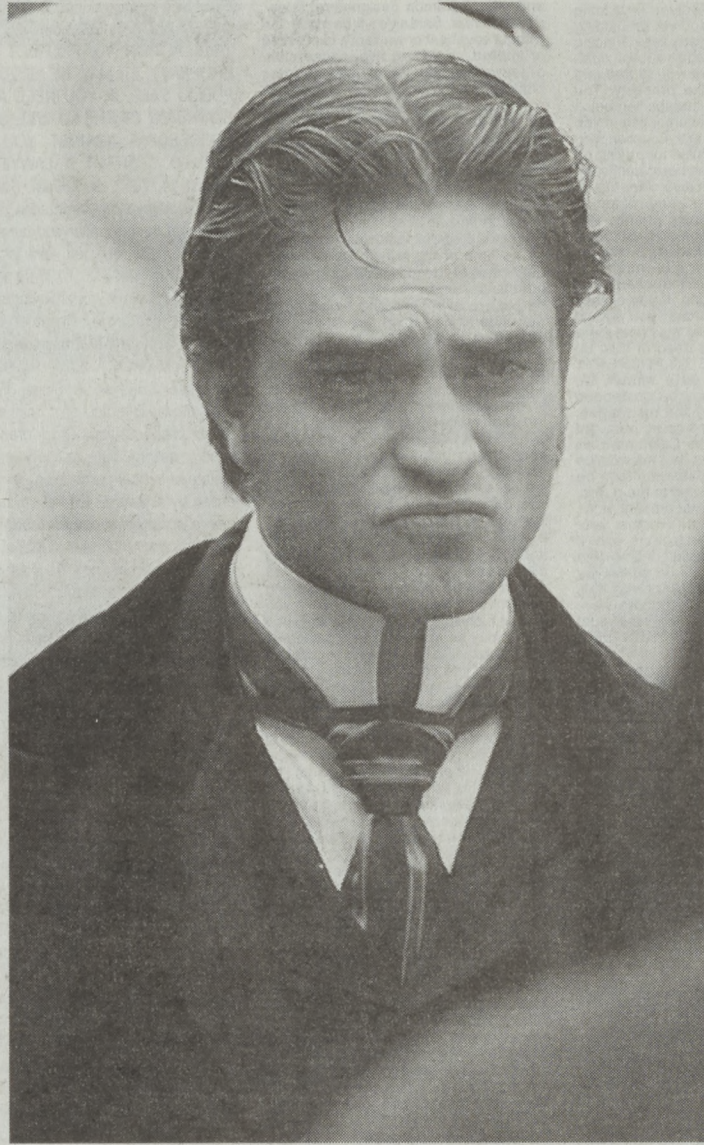

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"The Lorax" (PG) -- The classic tale by Dr. Seuss has been reimagined in 3D, for reasons that have little to do with defending trees from the voracious book industry. The whimsical story of the lonely creature who looked after the environment has become a colorful musical with a host of celebrity voices.

Even as a kid, I can never remember going through a Dr. Seuss storybook and yearning for a big-budget, drawn out hyper-color adaptation for the big screen. "The Lorax" has the technical ability to make something pretty to look at, but misses the mark when it comes to making something affecting or memorable.

"Warriors of the Rainbow: Seediq Bale" (NR) -- Don't let the title fool you; this unrated Taiwanese import (reportedly the most expensive Taiwanese production to date) is a violent tale of rebellion taken from a little-known piece of history. In 1930, the aboriginal Seediq Bale people of Taiwan mounted a revolt against the Japanese occupation. The film offers incredible visuals -- the natural landscape is gorgeous, and the battle scenes are jarring and elaborate. Some viewers may not be able to handle the grim, gut-wrenching scenes that depict the horrors of war or the 2 1/2-hour runtime.

"Blue Like Jazz" (PG-13) -- Don (Marshall Allman) grew up in Texas with his evangelical mother. He's a good Christian lad, but some doubts start to surface around the time he turns 18. Head full of questions, he enrolls in the most liberal campus he can find, Reed College in Portland. From there, the coming-of-age tale goes on a wild quest for meaning and reconnection with faith. This movie is aimed at believers who have questions, who maybe feel alienated from their core beliefs. The film looks at these burning issues through the lens of beer goggles and (PG-13, remember) college antics.

DOG OF THE WEEK

"Bel Ami" (R) -- Petticoats and bodices and silk fans and that guy from "Twilight" -- it's enough to make even the most avid lover of soap-drama gag. Robert Pattinson plays (since he doesn't really act) a broke veteran who's landed in 1890s Paris. An old army buddy gives him money to buy a suit, and the next thing you know this pasty dullard is seducing every married woman in town.

Somehow, these well-off, intelligent Parisian women just can't wait to fall into bed with this guy who can scarcely crack a smile or form a sentence. Pattinson isn't playing a vampire, but he's just as pale and pretend-broody. Instead of a rakish, manipulative Casanova, the leading ladies have the challenge of falling for a chiseled bar of soap.

"Marilyn in Fashion: The Enduring Influence of Marilyn Monroe" by Christopher Nickens and George Zeno (Running Press, $30) Reviewed by Larry Cox

It was 50 years ago this summer that Marilyn Monroe was found dead in her Los Angeles home. She didn't just leave an indelible mark on our pop culture, she continues to do so.

Although there have been countless books written about the incandescent movie star, legendary sex symbol and cultural icon, a new book by Christopher Nickens and George Zeno celebrates her life through the clothes that she wore.

It is divided into two main sections: "Part One: The Designers" examines such heavy hitters as Oleg Cassini, Dorothy Jeakins and Emilio Pucci, who created her ensembles, and documents where she wore them and how they impacted fashion trends. "Part Two: A Fashionable Miscellany" explores everything from Marilyn's hats and underwear to her makeup and hairstyles. Monroe's transformation from wholesome Norma Jean to sultry screen siren is -- of course -- the stuff of legends.

With hundreds of rare and never-before-published photos, and insights from the designers, co-stars and Monroe herself, "Marilyn in Fashion" offers a behind-the-scenes glimpse at one of the most extraordinary people of the 20th century.

Nickens has written best-selling biographies of Bette Davis, Marlon Brando and Elizabeth Taylor. Zeno, an illustrator, has amassed one of the world's largest privately owned collections of Marilyn Monroe images and memorabilia. Together, they present the star in a fresh, new context.

Monroe had little formal education, and despite the public confusing her with the dumb blondes she portrayed on screen, she proved that she was much more. According to Nickens and Zeno, Monroe was intelligent, ambitious, shrewd, innately talented and -- in every sense of the word -- a star. She developed a standard of beauty that continues to resonate even 50 years after her untimely death. "Marilyn in Fashion" is a fitting tribute to the style evolution of one of Hollywood's ultimate icons.

Watermelon Makes a Sassy Salsa

Watermelon shouldn't be restricted to just fruit platters and buffet tables. Its versatility is astounding and can be incorporated into various menus. North Americans primarily treat watermelon as a fruit, eaten out of hand or in salads and sweet desserts. Yet, in countries such as China, watermelons are stir-fried and stewed, and in Russia and many other countries, pickled watermelon rind is considered a delicacy and widely enjoyed.

If you're looking for a summertime salsa that combines sweetness, spice and everything nice, try this delicious Watermelon, Tomatillo and Jalapeno Salsa recipe. Best of all, you can use the watermelon as a festive serving dish. This recipe also works well with those small "personal" sized watermelons, as they make the perfect individual "dishes" for serving your salsa.

WATERMELON, TOMATILLO AND JALAPENO SALSA

10 medium tomatillos, peel off parchment-like coating and rinse
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 purple onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
3 jalapeno peppers or to taste, seeded and chopped

1 tablespoon ground cumin
2 teaspoons mild chili powder
1 cup tomato sauce or puree
2 teaspoons stevia, agave syrup or honey
4 cups seeded watermelon, diced, divided
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

1. Cut the tomatillos into quarters. Heat the oil in a large heavy saute pan over medium-high heat, saute the onions for a few minutes and then add the tomatillos, garlic and jalapenos. Saute until onions and garlic begin to brown. Reduce heat to low and sprinkle cumin and chili powder over the pan. Stir in the tomato sauce, stevia or syrup or honey and bring to a simmer. Remove from heat. Cool.

2. In a blender or food processor, pour in the tomatillo mixture with 1 1/2 cups of the watermelon and puree. Add mixture to the watermelon pieces and season with salt and pepper to taste. Place watermelon salsa in the watermelon shell, if desired, and serve with chips or crudite.

IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. Notice is hereby given that RECONSTRUCT COMPANY, N.A., as duly appointed trustee pursuant to the Deed of Trust executed by MARIA GISELA GODINEZ ZEPEDA, AN UNMARRIED WOMAN, dated 02/28/2006, and recorded 37/2006, as Instrument No. 2006-0008956-00, in Book, Page, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Yolo County, State of California, will sell on 08/10/2012 at 12:00PM, At the rear (North) entrance to the City Hall Building, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento, CA 95691 at public auction to the highest bidder for cash or check as described below, payable in full at time of sale, all right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by said Deed of Trust, in the property situated in said County and State and as more fully described in the above referenced Deed of Trust. The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 416 WESTACRE ROAD, WEST SACRAMENTO, CA, 95691. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. The total amount of the unpaid balance with interest thereon of the obligation secured by the property to be sold plus reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is $380,121.50. It is possible that at the time of sale, the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept cashier's checks drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee's sale. You will be bidding on a lien, not on a property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you may have been responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the lender may hold more than one mortgage on a deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee's sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 1-800-281-8219 or visit this Internet Web site www.reconstructco.com, using the file number assigned to this case TS No. 12-0026918.
